TO GLORIFY BREAKFAST

Toast and coffee and the morning paper!

Coffee and toast and the morning paper!

Ho hum! That's the great American breakfast—prepared with misgivings, swallowed in haste, not remembered long enough even to be repented.

It is perhaps a great pity that the days when American breakfasts were mighty affairs, suited to pioneering activities, are gone forever. Yet there are still ways to arouse even lagging modern breakfast appetites.

One is to add the delicious tang of pineapple to the morning meal. And nutritional studies have recently revealed a definite health reason for the addition. For canned pineapple has been found to be a generous source of vitamins A, B, and C and five essential minerals. It is also revealed as an aid to the digestion of proteins such as meat and eggs and to the prevention and relief of acidosis.

So here is a modern breakfast suited to modern needs—appealing to the appetite, healthful and simple to prepare—two slices of pineapple, a cereal if desired, two poached eggs on toast, and coffee.

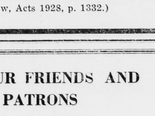
Light As a Feather



"LIGHT as a feather" is the term used when we describe a piece of cake which is so soft that it actually dissolves when a cook who is skilled has made it. For be the icing ever so delightful, it is all wasted if the cake pants and loses if the cake fails to earn the compliment.

Kitchen-wise women know that the secret of cake richness is baking powder—not only in the selection of the right powder, but also in the observance of two golden rules for its use.

They are, simple, yet important: First, always use amount recommended on your baking powder can. This proportion has been worked out as the best for that particular baking powder. Second, measure carefully. A heaping spoonful of any type of baking powder gives undesirable results. A level teaspoon means that you must level off with a knife.

Observing these golden rules, try your hand at these cakes.

Chocolate Layer Cake
(3 egg whites)

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons combination baking powder
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sifted sugar
⅔ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with milk and vanilla, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes, or in greased pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour. Double recipe to make three 10-inch layers. WOMEN: watch your BOWELS
What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so loved for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.
It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs. Senna and pepsin are most active ingredients.
When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and all the times when you are not apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

Father DARKLEAF'S Column

BY C.H.R.

I like this, from the pen of Jean Grigsby Paxton:

"I don't see how you stand it, God,
Looking right down into men's hearts
All the time.
And seeing them always wanting things
They can't get.
Not things—that's not what I mean—
But what a man or woman Wants in his heart:
A chance to do his bit in his own way,
A little time to look up at the sky
And watch the high clouds sailing by,
You know!
Maybe you don't know what it's like
To want and want and want,
Up in Heaven with all the angels there,
And folks that are saved.
Maybe it isn't lonely there,
Unless—perhaps—
I wonder—
God! Do you happen to want us?"

• • •

One Willie Smith, who resides beside the road that runs from Cumberland to Cartersville, took unto himself a course in taxidermy. So he stuffed animals for his community. His was a correspondence course and he turns out some fine specimens. But, as a rule Father Darkleaf has little use for correspondence courses. I once answered a coupon what was supposed to make me pluck a ukelele in ten days—but that particular ten days hasn't arrived yet. Another course was supposed to make me a magician and baffle all my friends with my correspondence genius. But all that disappeared was my lucre. In my day I've found few "short cuts" to ability and wisdom, verifying an opinion of Euclid of some two thousand years standing.

• • •

President Roosevelt has departed from the ways of his predecessor in office by not appointing commissions for everything. But, perhaps he might consent to name one commission—a commission to find out what Hoover's commissions did.

• • •

Cowper said: "Knowledge is proud that he knows so much. Wisdom is humble that he knows no more."

• • •

It is refreshing as a touch of Spring to meet again people with the fine atmosphere of chivalry as Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lewis, our esteemed neighbors of Toga.

• • •

Sometimes that is one thing that worries me. In all the high pressure we live through, are we depending too much on heredity alone to carry through to the next generation those qualities so aptly covered by the one word, 'Southern?' In every community and county there are families who can be described by that word. But lawse me, be important it is to grow up another generation of that type.

• • •

Into the worries of the depression generation, I toss these words from Daniel Webster: "If we work upon marble it will perish; if upon brass time will efface it; if we rear temples they will crumble; but if we work upon immortal minds, we engrave something which will brighten through all time."

"Believe it or not". Many and many a happening has been printed under that head-ing. But here is one from Pamplin that caps the climax.

Last fall L. N. Ligon stacked six wagon loads of clover hay in a field. That hay stayed put until several days ago when a March whirl-wind got hold of it. And when the amazing thing happened. According to Mr. Ligon, it sounded like an airship was passing over and upon looking up he saw his six loads of hay flying high and wide. And, yes sir, "Believe it or not", it landed a mile away from the place where it started.

Now Mr. Ripley, here's an item from Pamplin for you!

Report On Boys Farm Work In Local Dept.

Despite adverse conditions of an unfavorable season and low price of farm products, students of vocational agriculture in the Appomattox and Pamplin high schools cleared 26½c an hour after allowing 8c for their own time. Fifty-six boys completed the program, which was set up last session out of a possible fifty-eight, and on the average, put in 252 hours of productive labor. Each realized for his effort $67.55, a total of $3,782.-95, above all cost, such as: rent on land, equipment, rations, seed, fertilizer, etc. This result was shown by accurately kept records.

One hundred and twenty-three acres were devoted to filed crops, consisting of corn, tobacco, small grains and hay; fifteen acres were devoted to truck crops.

Eleven head of cattle were cared for, 15 fat hogs, 13 cows, 880 laying hens, 525 baby chicks, 5 sheep and 15 hives of bees. From which were produced 3 calves, 3,800 pounds of pork, 8,450 dov eggs, 110 pigs and 6 lambs. This was shown in the annual supervised practice report submitted to Superintendent J. A. Burke and the State Supervisor, Dr. W. S. Newman, by R. W. Wilkins, instructor of vocational agriculture.

Outstanding programs were carried by John Cole, Carrington Beard, Edward Harvey, and Ural Carson. These boys each carried four or more enterprises, putting in over 32 hours of productive labor and cleared an average of $142.86. Edward Harvey lead the group with a total of $202.01.

Approximately over four jobs each of a non-productive nature were carried by the boys on an average, totaling 209 in number. Such jobs consisted of construction and repair work, and also covered improvement practices in field crops, orchards, poultry, home ground improvements and gardening. These supplementary jobs gave each boy a total of 332 hours, a grand total of 18,-604 hours. These results are obtained through a carefully planned training program, correlating the classroom with the home farm and putting into practice the vocational slogan, "Learn to do by doing."
